

THE GRAD ACADEMY

THE PROBLEM: Graduate students are rarely taught how to succeed in academia. Departments are faced with the practical need to provide course work specific to degree requirements; thus, academic skill sets are often learned through trial-and-error, or not at all.

THE SOLUTION: The Grad Academy offers an intense, full-day workshop that provides graduate students with research-based skill sets. Past participants report increased productivity, improved academic reading and writing, and increased confidence. The workshop includes instruction in the following areas:

Impostor Phenomenon and Academia

How to Think Like Successful Academics

Academic Time Management

Demystifying
Academic Reading

Conquering Academic Writing

Efficient
Academic Research

I think that every part of that workshop was just jaw-dropping.

Janice, PhD Student in Education

Hands down the most useful and relevant workshop I have experienced in my grad school journey.

Andy, PhD Student in Political Science

www.ciscoconsulting.org